impaired, to update them with regards to operations that have changed since the statutes have been written. I think the Committee was unanimous in believing that the changes were necessary and that there would be no problems with them. As I indicate, there is extensive written testimony that could be provided if someone has a question, but after we heard all the presentation and the fact that no one came in to oppose it, it was our feeling that in some ways the bill was a routine measure but certainly a necessary one. So I would suggest that we advance it.

PRESIDENT: Senator Kelly.

SENATOR KELLY: Mr. President, members of the Legislature, this bill does just really two things. The Department has a great big long list of the blind people. They have absolutely no use for it. It may violate the rights of privacy. They want to discontinue this list. The other thing it does is puts the money that they get from the vending machine operations into a cash fund and they pay the bills out of the cash fund. Their current operation is that it goes into the general fund and everything must be handled by voucher which is strictly an extra expense and proves no purpose because the cash fund is audited the same as the vouchers are audited. We don't need the vouchers. We need the bill.

PRESIDENT: Senator Stoney.

SENATOR STONEY: Mr. President, a question of Senator Kennedy. Just for my own knowledge, can you give me a brief definition of cash fund and revolving fund, the differences between the two?

SENATOR KENNEDY: Let's say, so many times, and this does happen in government here, that this fund, you will receive it. Then it must go into the state funds and then comes back out as a voucher. So a small sum which they already have the money, $20,000, is being used as a cash flow fund and it is not going into the state funds and coming back out as a voucher. It is saving the duplication of, let's say, it is real small sums that are used in this cash fund. But we are talking about the same money only eliminating one bureaucratic set up.

SENATOR STONEY: I appreciate that. Is there someone else, maybe I am a little dense this morning, but who could give me a little clearer definition of this, please? Senator Goodrich said he can help.

SENATOR GOODRICH: Okay, Senator Stoney, if you have a revolving fund, the revolving fund is located within the central administration office here in Lincoln. What these people want to do is to have a cash fund out in each one of the stands that they have and not have to go through the voucher procedure. They can then handle the minor purchases and sales through a cash fund at the stand, which they are literally doing now anyhow, but they are literally violating the law in doing that.
